What will a follow-up consultation involve?

Consultation may involve:

- short planning sessions;
- brief, one-time advice;
- feedback on your work (reviewing the quality and effectiveness);
- hands-on assistance for groups working through our defined step models; and/or information and resources.

Consultations will be carried out in English by YETP associates or guest consultants from our network of planners, advocates, communicators and evaluators.

They may be conducted via telephone, electronic media, in person at a mutually agreed upon location, or using a combination of all three methods.

They range from short, one-time contacts to a number of longer sessions (1.2 day or more); time and travel limitations may exist.

How do I arrange a consultation?

To arrange a consultation, complete and submit the online service request form available either at http://www.thcu.ca/YETP/consultations/request\_form.cfm or on the following sheet. Free consultations are available only until the end of March 2006.
